BIGGER ALTAR

Southwest Conference football is among the best in major college conferences, but its basketball is among the worst.

Nobody knows why, but Frank Broyles, head football coach for a year at the U of Missouri ahead of Dan Devine and now grid coach-athletic director at Arkansas, urges the Southwest Conference to find out.

The old saw about this being "football country" holds no water because the Pac-8, the Big 10, and Big 8, to name only three, play both good basketball and football.

I'm like Frank Broyles. I don't see why the Southwest Conference should be married to football any more than Texas high schools. Cameron, fortunately, isn't anymore.

Broyles is also one of the winningest coaches in college football. And he is right in realizing it is a copout for football to dominate Southwest Conference winter sports development.

If we are to keep the sports altar, let's make room for something else.

Boy, Mother

Flown To

Burn Center

A 2-year-old Cameron boy was flown Monday by a MAST (Military Assistance to Traffic and Safety) helicopter from Fort Hood to the Brooke Army Medical Burn Center in San Antonio.

Stephen Townsend of 900 N. Jefferson suffered second and third degree burns on both legs and his left arm about 7:50 p.m. Saturday when an electric washing machine at his home caught fire. A spokesman at St. Edward Hospital described the child's condition as good.

However, the youngster was flown to San Antonio for further treatment at the burn center. The helicopter left Cameron airport at 6:25 p.m. Monday.

The boy's mother, Mary Townsend, was also burned in the fire. She suffered second degree burns on her legs and hands. She was dismissed from the Cameron hospital and accompanied her son to San Antonio.

try their hand at tennis these days at Yoe Courts.

Once in a while, feedback has it that tennis is for the smaller and less able high school athletes. I was a starting fullback in high school beside a tennis player, and I'll be glad to play a set with any 200-pounder who wants to step on the court.

I think it speaks well for junior high tennis players that they beat senior high players five to "zip" the other day. But it also says athletes are directed, as usual, to the major sports.

Like golf, tennis is a game we can play all our lives. There are few big crowds, unless you play university or top amateur-pro tennis. That is the attraction, the glory of major high school sports.

But take it from a high school college athlete who never coached major sports, you won't be playing them, except from an easy chair, after you're 30. Only a few pros play past 35.

And that's a long time until you're out of it at the average age of 78.

'Nature's Acre' Taking Shape

"Nature's Acre," a special place for nature lovers, is taking shape these days at Wilson-Ledbetter Park. It is one of the current improvements taking place at the old park, which was suffering from a certain amount of neglect.

When brush and weeds were cleared from under the trees at the park, a plot of land was left as it was, and this will be called "Nature's Acre." And it is a special place with a charm all its own.

The only clearing done in the acre is for paths that wind through the area, with rustic benches to be placed at the ends of the walks. The paths are edged in brick and covered with a gravel surface and are being built by a combination of Green Thumb and Boy Scout labor.

The Scouts, members of Troop 752 which has a house in the park, are making the paths and have hung or installed bird feeders and birdhouses in the area. They are also working on identifying trees, shrubs, wildflowers, and vines and will tag each variety with its proper name. So far they have identified 27 species.

An old barbecue grill, made of stone, in the acre is being repaired for use by families who like the sounds of bird songs with their picnic meals.

Other current work in Wilson-Ledbetter Park includes the trimming of the numerous trees, and removing silt from the lake, which will be deepened and stocked with fish when it is full of water. A settling basin will take care of silt before it reaches the lake in future.

Other stone barbecue grills will be repaired and benches will be replaced to go with stone and concrete tables.

SUN-DAPPLED SHADE invites a stroll along the brick-lined paths of "Nature's Acres," a small plot of wilderness in Wilson-Ledbetter Park that will be a haunt for nature lovers.

Explorers Probe For Oil Finds

By Lionel Walsh

LONDON

Reuter -- Scarcely a week passes without news of promising oil finds as companies intensify their search for the precious liquid in some of the most remote and inhospitable regions of the world.

Spurred by the five-fold increase in prices imposed by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), the oil explorers are probing oceans floors, arctic wastes, equatorial rain forests and parched deserts.

It is estimated that oil companies are spending about four billion dollars a year on prospecting for new oil resources outside the OPEC strongholds in the Middle East.

The quest often produces spectacular results. Norway has just announced that its Statfjord Field in the North Sea has reserves of about three billion barrels, making it one of the biggest discoveries in the area.

North Sea waters have been the scene of a sharp rise in drilling activity from 15 rigs at the beginning of 1973 to 33 at present in British waters alone.

For Britain, struggling with economic crisis and huge bills for Middle East oil, North Sea oil is the light at the end of a very dark tunnel. If all goes well, it could make Britain self-sufficient in oil by 1980.

Yet, oil experts differ in their assessment of the extent of accessible untapped oil reserves in the world. Even if few believe there will be enough new oil to destroy OPEC's preponderance in world markets, dependence on OPEC can at least be reduced.

The oil price rise has meant that many possible oil sources that were uneconomic a few years ago are now suitable for development and potentially profitable.

This is why oil explorers are now assessing costs of producing oil from coal, shale and tar. Furthermore, the price rise has provided the impetus for the costly business of off-shore prospecting.

As long as OPEC maintains its prices, it will be worthwhile for the oil explorers to brave the buffeting of North Sea squalls and to invest in special underwater equipment and sophisticated instruments for seismic surveys.

But any sudden drop in oil prices could drastically change the outlook -- despite all the vast sums expended on finding alternatives to Middle East oil. OPEC suppliers would then be able to undercut the cost of energy drawn from the new oil fields.

This is why Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has proposed a guaranteed floor price for oil, high enough to ensure that the search for new sources of energy is maintained but not so high that the oil consumers are forced to make themselves completely independent of OPEC. It is a plan designed to offer advantages to producers and consumers alike.

The Kissinger proposal would involve a significant reduction in current OPEC prices of around $10.46 a barrel. Although U. S. officials decline to say what the new floor price might be, there are reports that they would be prepared to consider seven or eight dollars a barrel.

Whatever the economic -- and geological -- uncertainties, the search for oil goes on.

In the Communist world, the hunt is no less keen than in the West. In China's rugged northern province of Heilungkiang-Black Cragon River -- oilmen have to endure temperatures that swing from 90 plus to minus 40 degrees Fahrenheit.

Soviet geologists are hard at work in western Siberia in terrain that is an impassable swampland in summer and a howling wilderness in winter. It is only ten years since oil was first struck at Lake Samatlor in the basin of the River Ob, which winds northwards to the Arctic. The Russian experts believe the region covers an underground ocean of oil.

In South America, the search for oil is pursued in stifling snake-infested equatorial jungles and the frigid wastes of Patagonia.

Ultimate Benefactors...

By their nature, most people are one dimensional. That is the norm. They usually have one skill, varied interests, and normal human appetites.

People with more than one dimension are approved as long as they fit a lot of the mold of the norm.

The multi-dimensional people are rarer, and generally suspect, because they function in varying conditions, varying disciplines with relative ease.

One of the things education is about is to understand "individual differences" of people, and not just the obvious. And if education can allow the one-dimensionals to see some bit of what the multi-dimensionals see, there is enormous progress and not mere change.

The trick is to keep uniqueness without destroying it. For the one-dimensionals are the ultimate benefactors.

Lead, Follow, Etc....

Perhaps a dozen years ago, a show biz type came through town, giving a couple of performances downtown and visiting afterwards with a few people here.

This show biz type was discussing things, and he said finally, the only way to move things is: "To lead, follow, or get out of the way."

It was not new, but an easy phrase to remember. Since that period, when a Dale Carnegie course in 1963 attracted more than 40 business and professional types from the area, this town and county have been leading: region, state, nation.

The record is familiar, so it is pointless to repeat. But the record makes it rather easy to project construction of an auditorium-show arena area, new parks, and recreation facilities. It makes it easy to tear down the old and build the new.

It has become a systematic renewal of old Cameron. As Jonathan Seagull was advised, "It is easy when you know what you are doing."

We listened. And it works. "Lead, follow, or get out of the way."

"Low Down"
FROM THE
Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

ALL AMERICANS TO BE FINGERPRINTED?

REP. JOSEPH E. KARTH (Minn.). In recent days the specter of the police state has been raised in our country. I refer to the proposal made by Miss Frances Knight of the State Department which would require all Americans to carry identity cards.

"The St. Paul Dispatch... carries an editorial which lambastes this liberty-limiting idea."

Federal ID Cards?

What's gotten into the federal government with all its zealotry to protect us? First it was the Justice Department and now the director of the State Department's passport office; they want all Americans to carry government-issued identification cards. For our own good, of course.

Early this month Justice proposed we all be required to carry IDs so that illegal aliens couldn't take our jobs, and this week Frances Knight, the passport biggie, says we all need IDs--complete with fingerprints (and who knows what else)--to protect us from "criminal impersonations."

Last year alone, says Miss Knight, there were 791 passport frauds. Think of that! To prevent the issuance of seven to eight hundred phony passports, 200 million Americans should have their fingers inked, their photos taken and, likely, a few other pertinent and impertinent personal data recorded and filed. A trifling price to pay for keeping the passport office happy, or preventing a wetback from getting a job weeding lettuce.

There are some zany uses to which national IDs have been put. In the Soviet Union they are used to keep citizens from moving about the country without official permission.

Identity cards--whether issued by governments or the neighborhood bank or department store--are not just cards any more. They are keys to coded data banks, with much of the information in their scanner-read number privy only to the issuing agency. (A fellow in Texas found out the other day that his opposition to a nuclear power plant got him branded as "subversive" in a state dossier.)

Miss Knight says, "I predict that national registration eventually will come to this country."

That kind of protection is the murderer of liberty.

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

The law being debated in congress to make it unlawful to employ emigrants who enter illegally should be passed and enforced before ID cards are considered.

Legislators Nervous Over Reform Laws

Legislators are getting nervous over new reform laws which restrict their political fund-raising.

House Speaker Bill Clayton has advised representatives to postpone their efforts to retire campaign debts until after the legislative session in view of warnings by a district attorney.

Travis County District Attorney Robert O. Smith told House leaders direct solicitation of Austin-based lobbyists for contributions to campaign war chests is a violation which he would feel called on to take before a grand jury.

The issue came to Smith's attention when a Texas Civil Liberties Union official, who is a registered lobbyist, complained that he had been solicited for a contribution to a representative's fund-raising reception in Dallas.

A provision of the new penal code makes it an offense for a legislator to solicit any benefit from a person known to have an interest in legislation. There are less strict interpretations than the one by Smith, but the district attorney is the one lawmakers feel they must stay on the right side of.

Serious attention is being given to amending some of the laws passed in 1973--particularly the penal code provisions which cast a legal cloud on a lawmaker's accepting a "benefit" from a person who has an interest in any matter before the legislature or "contemplated" by the legislature.

LOSS REPORTED

A Texas Education Agency indicates students lost more than 2.4 million in tuition refunds they should have received from 19 proprietary schools.

When a student quits, he is supposed to get back the unused portion of his tuition within 30 days.

Woodrow W. Bean of El Paso, State Board of Education member, called on Gov.

Dolph Briscoe and Atty. Gen. John Hill for a complete audit of all Texas Education Agency financial transactions during the last four years.

Bean charged refund losses may be as much as $5 million to $8 million. He also claimed (while admitting he could not confirm) that about $105 million in public funds administered by TEA has been "misused, misapplied or otherwise lost somewhere."

SMOKE BAN VOTED

Smoking in public places could bring a stiff fine under a bill just passed by the Texas Senate and sent to the House.

The ban covers elevators, theaters, movie houses, libraries, museums, hospitals, school facilities, intrastate buses, planes or trains--except in specifically designated areas.

SCHOOLS CRITICIZED

Some public schools and junior colleges have been criticized by House members for allegedly using emergency funds to raise teachers' pay, make investments and pave parking lots.

Rep. Tom Massey of San Angelo, House Education Committee chairman, said a special report is being compiled on the "abuse."

Rep. Fred Head of Troup proposed to repeal an $18 million emergency grant to meet junior college enrollment increases.

COURTS SPEAK

The State Supreme Court again upheld constitutionality of a law permitting legislator-lawyers to delay trials in which they represent clients. The Court said the continuance provision may not be used if only enforcement of prior court orders are involved, however.

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed a negligent homicide conviction of a Hillsboro man because the jury assessed an improper punishment of two years in jail.

Third Court of Civil Appeals upheld power of the State Finance Commission to prohibit savings and loan associations from offering premiums to lure new accounts.

In an order applauded by the Attorney General as the beginning of a statewide enforcement effort, a Bexar County district judge granted an injunction to prohibit air pollution by a rendering plant.

AG OPINIONS

Attorney General Hill warned legislators they may be overstepping the law by accepting speech-making honorariums from groups interested in legislation.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

• The open meetings law applies to hospital authorities created by city ordinance.

• Texas Coastal and Marine Council has no authority to supplement the legislatively-determined salary of its executive director.

• Port of Houston Authority may appoint and employ peace officers, and the officers may carry handguns while on duty.

• Proposed annexation of school district territory must be approved by a majority of trustees in the receiving district.

• Kidney Health Care Act benefits may not be denied to aliens.

APPOINTMENTS

Edward P. Halbert of San Augustine was reappointed to Texas Animal Health Commission by Governor Briscoe.

Briscoe also named Mrs.

Naomi Andrews of Houston, B. DuBois Brown of San Antonio and Dr. John B. Coleman of Houston to the board of regents of Texas Southern University.

Attorney General Hill appointed W. J. Murdaugh Jr. chief of his bonds and charitable trusts division, succeeding Mike Willatt who resigned to enter private law practice in Austin.

Dr. Phyllis Procter has been appointed manager of research and program development for Texas Industrial Commission.

SHORT SNORTS

Texas' traffic death toll for 1974 was 3,046, representing a saving of 646 lives from the record 3,692 highway deaths of 1973.

Campfire Girls and Boy Scouts can sell their candy and cookies and other goodies without paying sales taxes under a bill passed by the Senate.

Claudia Brummett of Alvarado, Alicia Chacon of El Paso and Lem Allen of Kingsbury are new Texas members of the National Democratic Committee.

Family Living Committees To Sponsor Sewing Clinic

"How do I adjust my sewing machine for the new lightweight fabrics?" "How about interfacings, which one do I use?" "What type of zipper do I need for this shell and how do I put it in?" "Am I going to have to sew in centimeters instead of inches?"

These are some of the questions today's consumers are asking and facing as they enter the ever growing home sewing market. For the answer to these and many more, attend the "April Fools Sew and So Clinic" being held on April 1 at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. at the Taylor High School. The school is located north of Taylor on the Granger Highway.

Two identical sessions are planned. The programs at each session will include the following presentations: "The Sewing Machine and Today's Fabrics" by a Singer representative from Waco; "Zippers in Today's Fashions" by a World of Fabrics representative from Taylor; "Sewing and the Metric System" from J. C. Penney's; and "Interfacing Today's Fabrics" by Beverly Rhoades, clothing and textiles specialist, Texas A&M Extension Service, College Station. Following the four presentations, group discussions on specific sewing problems will be held with these representatives and local home economists.

These programs are being sponsored by the Family Living Committees in Milam and Williamson Counties as well as the Milam County Extension Service and the Williamson County Extension Service.

The programs are open to all interested residents in Milam and Williamson Counties and are free of charge. If you have any questions concerning the programs, contact Mrs. Judy Dececk, Williamson County Extension Agent in Georgetown, or Mrs. Chris Holcombe, Milam County Extension Agent, or Miss Vivian Pittman, Milam County Extension Agent in Cameron. Come to the April Fool's Sew and So and bring a friend.

Popular new colors include clear blues, pale peaches to bright corals, greens with a tinge of yellow, and black. The newest fashion colors include violet, mauve pink, and dusty grape. Aqua and jade are the spring follow-up to fall's "teal blue" success.

Q. In case Congress passes legislation giving a tax rebate to everyone, should I wait and file my tax return after the legislation is passed?

A. No, don't wait. The tax rebate is automatic and will be based on a percentage of an individual's tax liability for 1974. This means taxpayers should file their returns following the instructions that come with the tax forms without regard to any rebate now being proposed. Only when the IRS has verified a person's tax liability can it figure the rebate and issue a check.

Q. Which kinds of unemployment benefits are taxable and which are not?

A. Unemployment benefits paid to you by a state from the Federal Unemployment Trust Fund and payments made under the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act are not taxable. If you were a federal employee and received unemployment compensation, it is not taxable. However, payments made under a collective bargaining agreement to a state employee who is not covered by the state's unemployment law are taxable. Supplemental unemployment benefit payments received from a company-financed supplemental unemployment benefit fund are taxable. Finally, unemployment benefit payments directly from your former employer, they are also taxable. Unemployment benefits paid to you by a union or non-union fund to which you voluntarily contribute are taxable only to the extent that the benefits exceed your payments into the fund.

Q. I received a backpay award from my employer as a result of a suit. Is this amount taxable?

A. Yes. It would have been taxable income if you had received the money as a part of your regular paycheck, and it is still taxable income now. However, it is a deductible item for your employer.

Q. I just took a new job in another town. Can I deduct the cost of looking for a house in the area of my new job?

A. If you moved to a new residence because you went to work for a new employer or transferred to a new place of work, you may be able to deduct the reasonable costs of the move. The cost of house-hunting trips before you move from your former residence to the general location of your next principal place of work and your return after obtaining work is deductible. These costs would include travel, meals and lodging.

Q. Are utility taxes deductible?

A. Utility taxes imposed under state or local law are not deductible if the rate differs from that of the general sales tax in your area.

Q. I bought a new car recently for personal use which developed so many mechanical problems that I had to get rid of it. I traded it in for less than what I paid. Is this loss deductible?

A. No. A loss from the sale or exchange of personal property is not a deductible loss, unless it results from casualty or theft. However, don't forget that your state or local sales tax on the purchase of your new car or the part of the tax you paid that is equal to the general sales tax is deductible from your Federal income tax.

Q. Don't I have to show exact amounts to the point of deductions, income, etc., on my tax return?

A. No. Taxpayers may round off such amounts to the whole dollar. This means that you may eliminate any amount less than 50 cents and increase any amount from 50 to 99 cents to the next dollar.

Q. How can I determine whether to use Form 1040 or 1040A to figure my tax?

A. Generally, the Short Form 1040A is used by a person who does not itemize his deductions and whose gross income consists only of wages, salary, tips, and dividend income or interest income of $400 or less. But, taxpayers who have other types of income, gains or losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets, investment tax credit, sick pay exclusion, etc., should use Form 1040 and the appropriate schedules to determine their tax. The instructions for each form explain in greater detail which form is appropriate for you to use.

THE CONSUMER ALERT

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

ALUSTIN—"Special early-bird" Easter Sale One-third off regular price. Many business men agree that there's nothing like such a sale to draw potential buyers to a store.

And most merchants feature a variety of special sales during the year. There may be mark-down sales, holiday sales, pre- or post-season sales, discontinued merchandise sales, or a host of others.

All of these sales could result in savings for bargain-minded consumers, too. But there is a small minority of businessmen who may attempt to attract consumers with deceptively advertised or misleading sales, according to the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division.

They warn that a few merchants advertise "sales" almost continuously and that such "sales" may not offer prices that are any lower than regular prices.

The term "sale" generally should be used only to advertise significant reductions from a merchant's usual and customary price for the merchandise, and should continue for a reasonable period of time, not continuously.

Special "limited time" sales should be carefully observed by merchants. For example, a "one-day only" sale should be just that. Prices for goods should go back to regular prices immediately after expiration of the stated time.

"Introductory" sales should be for a limited time only, too, and the price should be increased to advertised regular price after such a period is over.

If you have a consumer complaint about misleading or deceptive advertising, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, your county or district attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau.

and is closely related to the nasturtium.

Gourds produce few flowers but have colorful fruits. "The fruit ripens in late summer and can be used for fall and winter arrangements in your home," notes Janne.

Among annual flowering vines that are attractive in home landscapes are morning glories, cathedral bells, moonflowers, nasturtiums, canary birds, gourds, cypress vines, and black-eyed Susans.

The morning glory is a colorful white, blue, or red flower. It grows to a height of up to 15 feet.

Start the vines in 4-inch pots and transplant them 2 or 3 weeks after the usual last frost date. Be sure they are planted in a well-drained sunny location, emphasizes Janne.

"Don't plant morning glories in rich soil or use fertilizer," as this will produce vigorous vines but few flowers," says the horticulturist with the Texas A&M University System.

Cathedral bells grow up to a height of 20 feet and produce bell-shaped, blue or violet flowers. "These vines are free of insect and disease problems and can be planted in either a sunny or shady spot," says Janne.

The moonflower vine is also tall-growing and produces large white fragrant flowers which open during the evening. It also has large heart-shaped leaves that provide a dense shade.

Nasturtiums are bushy vines that grow 4-to-5 feet tall and produce fragrant red or yellow flowers. They prefer a well-drained soil of low or average fertility.

The canary bird vine grows to a height of about 8 feet

Grain Sorghum Recovers From Recent Freeze

By Bill McCutchen

Grain Sorghum producers say that grain sorghum that was up during the recent freeze was bit back but that it is recovering and will be okay. A lot of grain sorghum was up in the Thorndale area with only a scattering out of the ground and receiving freeze damage in the rest of the county.

Some replanting due to low germination seed and low seedling vigor was reported. A rain would be welcomed by almost everyone and rain will be needed to bring up some of the sorghum.

There have been numerous reports of cotton up in Milam and Williamson counties. That, folks, isn't cotton you are seeing but sunflowers. They do resemble a beautiful cotton stand. Incidentally the frost didn't as much as scorch a leaf on the sunflowers. They are tough customers.

E. J. Provasek of Cameron says that he can tell he lost at least some and nearly all of his plum crop to the freeze, but says it will be some time before he can tell about the peach crop. Many times the peaches, even though damaged, will continue to grow for a few weeks then fall off.

Annual Conference

Producers who feel that they are backed to the wall by deepening profit losses will want to consider enrolling for the second annual Texas Animal Agricultural Conference, April 10 and 11 at Texas A&M University. "If you are concerned about the price of cattle, the cost of feed and fertilizer, the availability, and cost of operating capital or the effects that the world economy may have upon your operation, you may obtain the most current information in these areas at the Animal Agriculture Conference.

Sessions will be in the J. Earl Rudder Center. This conference could be considered a survival course, because the situation is so serious that the fine points of understanding and latest technical background can determine who may survive.

The 1975 Animal Agriculture Conference will include general sessions each morning, directed to the price outlook for livestock and grain, along with factors that affect our world monetary situation and outlook. Another feature will be a panel of financial experts who will discuss various outlooks for farm and ranch credit in the months ahead.

Forest Goetsch, president of Doane's Agricultural Service, Inc. will be lead-off speaker on the opening day, while Kenneth Monfort, president of Monfort of Colorado, Inc. will be featured the morning of April 11.

Besides the general sessions, separate short courses are planned each day for Beef Cattle, Dairy, Horses, Swine, and Pastures and Forages. Range and wildlife discussions will be keyed to the Beef Cattle program.

There are many organizations that represent cattlemen today. Six organizations viewpoints will be presented by a panel, to be moderated by Dr. L. S. Pope, associate dean of Agriculture at A&M.

Peanuts React To Fertilizer

When it comes to fertilizer, peanuts have proved a rather fickle.

Research over a five-year period at the Texas A&M University-Tarleton Experiment Station and at six other locations in North Central Texas has shown that peanuts respond in quite different ways to different fertilizer applications.

Soil fertility research in peanuts is being headed up by Ronald M. Jones with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, who is located at the Stephenville Station. Support for the research work is provided in part by the Texas Peanut Producers Board.

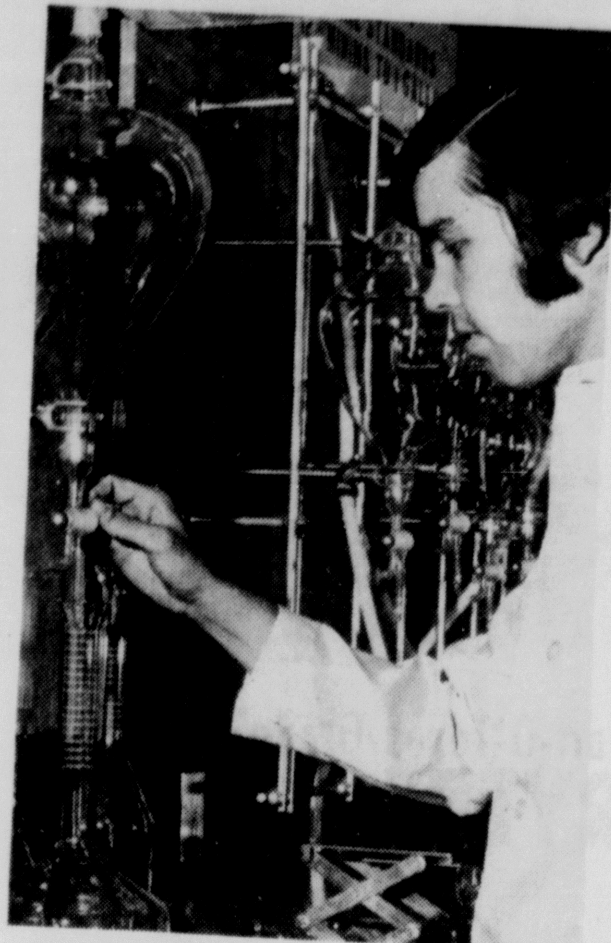

During the past five years

26 fertilizer combinations in six test locations plus 48 combinations at the Stephenville Station were applied each year on the same plot.

"All our test results from five years of work failed to indicate a definite rate of fertilizer which will always bring maximum yields or returns," points out Jones.

"However, there are several combinations that tend to produce the best results. Combinations of 25 pounds of nitrogen per acre with 40 pounds of phosphorus, 25 pounds of nitrogen and 40 to 50 pounds of potash, or 40 pounds of phosphorus and 50 pounds of potash appear to give the biggest boost in yields. Sometimes 40 pounds of phosphorus alone is as effective as any combination. Yet, these increases are generally less than 600 pounds of nuts per acre over plots receiving no fertilizer."

Although tests have not been conclusive as far as the right amount of fertilizer to use in peanut production, they indicate which fertilizers are the most detrimental to production. "Usually a complete fertilizer containing at least 25 pounds of nitrogen, 40 pounds of phosphorus, and 50 pounds of potash per acre was less effective than only two elements at those rates," notes Jones.

KEEPING STANDARDS HIGH—A Texas Department of Agriculture metrologist runs a volumetric check at the department's metrology laboratory in Austin. His job, calibrating weights and running tolerance checks, is the first in a line that makes accuracy a byword throughout the state. TDA's weights and measures section is part of the Consumer Services Division and is what Agriculture Commissioner John C. White calls "one of the finest weights and measures programs in the country." Once weights have been calibrated, inspectors use them to make sure scales are accurate. Then consumer items of every type are weighed at random to carry consumer protection one step further.

Cotton Acreage Goes Down

Growers intend to plant 10,000,000 acres of all cotton in 1975, 9.9 million to upland, and 67,200 to American Pima, according to the USDA's Crop Reporting Board. If realized, this acreage will be down 29 percent from the 14.0 million acres planted in 1974 and the lowest since 1967.

Texas and Oklahoma upland growers intend to plant 4.7 million acres, five percent more than was intended January 1 but 20 percent less than 1974 plantings. Planting has started in southern areas in Texas.

In the Delta states, growers plan to seed 3.0 million acres, three percent more than January 1 intentions but 36 percent less than 1974.

Growers in Arizona, California, and New Mexico expect to plant 1.4 million acres, up five percent from January 1 but down 24 percent from 1974.

In the Southeast, expected planting totaled 785,000 acres, unchanged from January 1 but 48 percent below 1974 plantings.

American Pima producers intend to plant 67,200 acres, 18 percent below 1974.

Economic Indicators Hint Better Market For Cotton

RALEIGH shows signs of bottoming out, and that should mean a better market for cotton producers.

That is the substance of a study of several economic indicators reported in the February "Cotton Summary" published by Cotton Incorporated, the research and marketing company of U. S. cotton producers.

"Cautious optimism" is the way David Cox, vice-president for economic research and development at Cotton Incorporated, views the situation for cotton producers.

Cox points to continued consumer purchasing of apparel and other textile products, textile industry efforts to control inventories, and strong anti-recession measures by foreign governments as indicators of a brighter future.

"The textile industry is still reacting very cautiously," Cox said. "Everyone is afraid to resume normal business operations as long as the overall industry and general economic situation remain clouded."

But while cotton buyers are cautious, the wait-and-see attitude cannot last forever. "Retailers and mills both realize that good should be on the shelf when the consumers want them," Cox said.

One factor lending optimism to the picture was a study by the Market Research Corporation of America showing that 1974 unit sales were down by only 3.2 percent from 1973 and that textile and apparel items were reasonably strong during Christmas and January.

Cox explained that as consumer sales continue to cut into retailer inventory, a trickle down effect will eventually reduce mill inventory and rekindle production. Mills will then begin buying raw cotton in earnest.

About one-half of the 1974 cotton crop is still in the hands of producers, as things stand now, and producers may be right to hold their crop until the market improves, Cox advised.

"Given the wait-and-see attitude of the textile industry and others, producers must adopt similar tactics," he said.

Cox suggested for 1975 planting that cotton producers evaluate market alternatives of various crops in depth. "Make firm plans only when attractive opportunities are available," he advised.

Cox urged all cotton producers to seriously evaluate the efficiencies of all inputs and all trips through the field in order to cut production costs.

Cattle Numbers Growing

Cattle feeding is down in Texas but the number of cows and calves is up. While cattle feeding has remained under pressure during the past two years, the breeding herd should be under pressure to be reduced in 1975, according to a livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"In Texas cattle feeding on Feb. 1 was 47 percent below levels last year," points out Dr. Ed Uvacek. "At the same time feeding levels were down 37 percent in the seven major cattle feeding states."

Uvacek says that placement of cattle and calves into Texas feedlots has also dropped considerably - being down 56 percent in January compared to the same month a year ago. Placements were down 42 percent in the seven major feeding states.

"With most feedlots facing a breakeven cost for Choice steers of about $42-45 per hundredweight - and market prices nowhere near that level - the feeding industry will continue at a crisis level," contends Uvacek.

On the other hand, the number of breeding cows in the United States is up four percent over last year, with cow and heifer numbers up six percent in Texas.

Grain Sorghum Acres Down, Cotton Up... Wheat, Corn, Soybean Acres Intentions... Cattle On Feed Down Again.

Falling grain prices apparently caused some shifts in planting plans for Texas farmers. Planting intentions for March 1 from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service show changes in acres to be planted to cotton as well as grain sorghum this year. Cotton acres are up four percent from the Jan. 1 intentions report and sorghum acres are down seven percent from Jan. 1.

As of March 1, here's how Texas farmers are indicating their acres to major crops this year:

Cotton-4,300,000 acres; sorghum 8,500,000 acres; corn-1,100,000 acres; soybeans-400,000 acres.

The cotton acreage figure for March 1 is one million acres under cotton acres harvested in 1974. The figure is also 29 percent under a year ago, and compares with a 23 percent reduction indicated on Jan. 1.

Sorghum acres are 13 percent above 1974 plantings, but the March 1 indication is seven percent below the Jan. 1 intentions report which showed a 20 percent increase for Texas in 1975 for sorghum compared to last year.

Nationwide, planting intentions for cotton acres totaled 9,884,000 as of March 1. The Jan. 1 indication was 9,500,000 acres. As of March 1, this is a 29 percent reduction from a year ago in acres.

Texas soybean acreage this year will be six percent higher than a year ago. Corn plantings are to be 22 percent higher than a year ago.

The U.S. total for spring wheat is about nine percent under last year, and the U.S. total for durum wheat is five percent above 1974.

The next acreage report will be on April 9 with a forecast of production and acreage for Texas winter wheat only. Other wheat production figures will be issued in May and June. Early July will be the date for the next report on acres of other crops.

CATTLE ON FEED continue their dramatic downward trend. The March 1 report shows cattle and calves on feed in Texas totaled 1,076,000 head. This is down 54 percent from a year ago, and is a decline of 13 percent from a month ago.

For the seven major cattle feeding states, a decline of 41 percent is noted for cattle and calves on feed compared to a year ago. This is also a seven percent decline from a month ago.

Total cattle on feed for the seven states numbered 5,403,000 head.

Is cattle feeding to disappear as we have known in recent years? It's likely that cattle feeding will continue to be a vital part of the livestock industry, but perhaps on a smaller scale than in the past.

In recent years, as many as 80 percent of all cattle which went to market went through a feedlot. That figure has changed drastically in the past two to three years because of skyrocketing feed grain costs.

Once the livestock industry is again back to profitable levels, some economists believe that cattle going to market through a feedlot will represent about 65 percent of the total.

PLANTING SEASON is in full swing throughout the southern and central parts of the state. Cotton planting is making progress in South Texas and will soon be underway in central Texas. Grain sorghum planting is at full speed in central Texas, and is virtually completed in south Texas.

Research Says Wine Industry A Possibility

AUSTIN—Research at two Texas universities may lead to a brand new area of agricultural production for the Lone Star state - growing grapes for wine.

According to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, researchers at Texas A&M and Texas Tech have discovered that soil, climate and biological conditions in the High Plains are ideal for growing grapes profitably.

"West Texas is similar to the grape-growing areas of California, which produces most of the wine in the United States," said White. Researchers are currently trying to find out if West Texas grapes are comparable in quality to those raised in other wine producing states.

If the answer is positive, it could mean a boon to prospective growers.

In the United States 480 million gallons of wine are consumed a year and a business magazine recently predicted that this figure will rise to 640 million gallons by 1980. Seventeen percent of the increase would come from outside California. Texas might be able to capture five to six percent of the expanding industry.

White said prices for wine grapes ranged in the $200-$600 a ton range with the average around $400. On many varieties yields average five to six tons an acre.

At A&M researchers have discovered that irrigation requirements are minimal. To grow grapes in the Lubbock area would take between seven and nine inches a year of irrigation water.

Beef Grading Standards Could Increase Supplies

Cameron, Texas, Herald, March 27, 1975 Page 7

"Americans are eating more beef than ever before and loving it," says Dr. John Hopkins, distinguished agricultural economist and head of the Department of Agricultural Economics, Texas A&M University.

"Average consumption of beef in 1974 was 117 pounds per person and a new high in the U.S.," according to Hopkins. "And present indications are that we'll see another new record in 1975

--exceeding 120 pounds per capita."

Our supply of beef is well able to handle such gains. In fact, Hopkins says, per capita consumption might have to exceed 130 pounds per person if we are to see any material decline in cattle numbers.

Hopkins has ample reason to know what he's talking about. He's the chairman of the recently appointed Council of Economic Advisors to the American National Cattleman's Association. The council, a group of distinguished college and industrial economists, will meet periodically to consider the total economic problems of the industry and suggest courses of action.

The council will focus on the broad, long range economic picture. Their work is intended to complement, not displace, present information programs of the American National Cattleman's Association.

Hopkins, who is Stiles professor, also has responsibilities with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. He formerly was vice-president of the Bank of America agricultural program.

"At our council's first meeting in Denver on February 28," Hopkins says, "it was determined that the issue emerging as a paramount problem is adequate financing for the cattle industry during its current crisis.

"Under the direction of the council, a group of experts will convene on the Texas A&M Campus, March 21-April 11 to begin focusing on the dimensions of the problem. They will attempt to assess the seriousness of the present financing problem, project the capacity of the industry to generate cash flows to service existing and expected debt loads, and evaluate alternative approaches.

"There is a world surplus of beef right now brought on by a combination of interlocking factors: the energy crisis, feed grain prices, economic downturn here and abroad, government interference in Europe and to a limited extent in the U.S., and too optimistic an expansion of breeding herds.

"Fortunately for the cattle industry, the supply of other meats will be down this year. Estimates are that pork supplies will be down for most, if not all, of 1975--possibly by 12 percent.

"Present indications are that the supply of poultry will be down 10 percent during the first half of the year. However, if feed grain prices move down a bit more, as they might well do, supplies of broilers can be increased rather quickly.

"Unlike poultry and pork, the demand for beef is characterized by a high income elasticity. When the 'real' incomes of consumers decrease, their demand for beef usually drops off. This may be significant at the present time when rates of inflation are reducing the real income of many people.

"Yet the upward trend in the consumption of beef has not been reversed. In fact, it appears that per capita consumption of beef hit a new high.

Triumphant Hour

I arose early today for a quiet walk in my garden.
Faraway, church bells in the valley glorified the morning. Suddenly, it seemed I saw another garden, another woman.

She stood crying by an empty tomb. The beauties of the morn meant nothing to her, for He, who had given meaning to her life, had died on Calvary. Weeping, she turned, "tell me where thou hast laid him..."
"Mary," By one single word joy was reborn. "Master!" she said, and knew her Lord lived.
Now, the tumultuous triumph of that hour rang across the centuries and swelled within me! The Lord is risen.
Come join the mighty chorus. Attend your church—learn the joyous promise of God's love.

In the 2nd round Georgetown came back to defeat Belton after a first game of 15-9. Georgetown turned to their net game to take the next game 16-14. In the deciding game, Georgetown showed up strong to take the match 15-12, and advance to the Championship match.

Del Valle gained passage to the Championship bracket by defeating Taylor 15-2 and 15-6.

In the final Belton took 3rd place by defeating Taylor 15-4 and 15-3.

In the Championship match Del Valle quickly showed their spiking ability against Georgetown 15-1. Georgetown rebounded and took the second game 15-9. In the deciding game, Del Valle had no decision in making their game plan work and defeated Georgetown 15-3.

In the first round of the eighth grade tournament action, Georgetown defeated Cameron 15-13 in the first game. OJT responded to the hard serving Georgetown girls and gained a 15-3 win. Georgetown took the final game and took the match point 15-9.

Murray-Go-Round

THOSE EASTERNERS!

Watch those Big-shot, arrogant, condescending Eastern Sports Writers jump on New Houston Oiler Coach BUM PHILLIPS' genuine country manner and call him a "Good Old Boy." You do know that is a current effete code phrase for being Texas, Southern, Country, or slow-witted.

Pasadena High Junior FRITZ CONNALLY, currently swinging a hot bat and making like a vacuum at shortstop on the Defending Champion Eaglebaseball team, continues to attract attention of the college scouts. The 6-3, 190 pound son of Former Aggie Basketball Captain FRITZ CONNALLY just finished basketball as an All-District choice, averaging 18-points per game.

Speaking of baseball: Perhaps the Houston Astros are going to fool those Houston Medias again. For years those people have had a pattern. First, they'd get carried away and pick the Houston National Leaguers to finish much higher than they were capable. Then, they'd make excuses for Roy Hofheinz's crowd. Next came ridicule. Go back and check. It's happened almost every year.

This time around, most columnists, radio, and TV people have made it quite clear they're not going out on the limb for those bums again. Well, if you believe in reverse psychology...

T. TOMMY -

TOMMY VAUGHN, a nice man just completed a two-year stint as President of the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo. Some folks who played across from the Aggies 1939 National Championship center had other ideas about his behavior. A very successful Houston Automobile dealer, former Poorboy Tommy enjoys all the comforts of affluence today - flies his own airplane to his own ranch and sends his daughters to the University of Texas.

Yoemen Blast Rockdale Tigers, 6-3

The Cameron Yoemen defeated the Rockdale Tigers Monday afternoon in baseball action 6-3. The 3 Rockdale Tigers scores came on 3 separate home runs.

The Yoemen's hitting came alive in the 4th inning, which allowed 4 runners to cross the home plate rubber at Yoe Baseball Diamond.

The Rockdale Tigers

started the scoring when Martin Stroman tagged the hardball over the 310 mark for his first home run of the afternoon.

In the bottom half of the inning, the Yoemen knotted the score at 1 all. Ricky Kelley advanced on a hard hit single to right field. Gary Horning unleashed a single from the batters box and an error by the left fielder allowed Kelley passage to the home plate.

In the bottom half of the third, Randy Sapp took all bases on a free ride homer which he blasted over the 310 mark to give the Yoemen a 2-1 advantage.

In the 4th slot, Martin Stroman bombed his second home run of the afternoon to tie the game 2 all.

In the bottom half of the frame the Yoemen unleashed a 4 run inning to destroy the Tigers.

Ricky Kelley was first to take the stick, and took a base on balls. Gary Horning bunted and on a confused throw, covered the first base and advanced Kelley.

Joe Smitherman popped out a single and was called safe on another Tiger error. Kelley and Horning scored while Smitherman advanced to 3rd on the left fielders' error.

Dennis Hollas gave a sacrifice hit for Smitherman, on still another error on the fielders choice. Smitherman scored and Hollas took first base safely.

Gene Kopriva churned a hard hit double from the plate to score Hollas and end the scoring attack for the Yoemen.

Rockdale's Bryant Heintz popped the ball over the right field fence in the top of the 5th that ended the Tiger's scoring.

Yoe Sprinters Place In Marlin Relays

The Yoe High track team participated in the Marlin Relays Saturday.

In the field events, Harry Brooks threw the shot put 49'9", his best for the year and placed second at the relays.

Kelvin Kelley placed 5th and Brian Cobb placed 7th in the discus. Willie Bell leaped 20' 6 1/2" in the broad jump and placed 3rd in the event. Michael White also placed in the event.

Sports Spotlight

By Forrest Guess

The date has been set for the girls district track meet according to girls Coach Pat Short.

The Yoe High girls will compete for the first time in field events and the running events at the district meet April 11. Westlake will be the host for the district meet.

There will be 17 girls to represent Yoe High at Westlake and the girls will compete in the same events as the boys track. The only events that the girls do not engage in are the pole vault and the mile run.

Coach Pat Short stated, "For a young team, we look good; we have some real good possibilities. Our dashes and relays will be our strong points, but the field events are slow coming along."

The team does look to be in real good shape and the Yoe girls should fair well in respect to the amount of time they have had in preparation of their first running.

in a number of practice game.

I visited with baseball coach Jon Forsythe and he offered these comments:

"Our pitching and hitting has really improved. The defense is slowly improving, strongly emphasized defense baseball. Along with defense ball I think a team should know how to bunt: bunting gives you leverage in the game situation and I demand that my players develop this essential tool in baseball."

About the district race, Coach Forsythe had these remarks: "We will try to polish up the district race in real good shape. We are still looking to Hearne and Elgin as the toughest teams in the district."

Coach Forsythe also added, "It looks tough, tougher than the 3A competition last year."

The Yoe baseballers will be in action this Thursday, Friday, and Saturday as they will compete in the LaGrange Baseball Tournament.

The Yoemen will face Houston Sealey in the opening game at 5 p.m., Thursday at the LaGrange stadium.

Equipment Operators To Train

WACO Governor Briscoe has announced the authorization of a $429,580 contract between the Texas Highway Department and Texas State Technical Institute. The funds will be used for a new heavy equipment operators training program on the James Connally Campus.

The pilot program will train a total of 182 students during a two year period as entry level equipment operators for highway construction contractors. The course will also be open to contractors who wish to upgrade present employees.

The Texas Highway Department considered State Tech as the logical place for training because of conjunctive programs already in operation on the campus. Heavy Truck Mechanics, Construction Equipment Mechanics, and Agricultural and Industrial Equipment Mechanics are all taught on the James Connally Campus. The new course will be under the direction of Charles Brannan, program chairman of Construction Equipment.

Mrs. Edna Von Rosenberg, affectionately known by "Rosie" to her countless friends and customers, is retiring from JC Penney on March 31st., following nearly 15 yrs. continuous service at our local store.

In appreciation of her years of loyal labor, we thankfully designate March 31st as "Rosie's Day". To help celebrate, we will provide cookies and drinks for Rosie to serve to her friends all day. Please come in and visit her on this great occasion. We know you will want to wish her well, and she is looking forward to greeting all of you.

To aid the celebration, we have reduced selected bolts of our best knit and woven fabrics from 1/4 to 1/2 off the original price. A great variety of colors and patterns, selected by Rosie herself, reduced for you on "Rosie's Day."
